Host and Guest

"You don't live in your own home like a barbarian; therefore, you won't act like a barbarian in the house where you are guest. Any show of formality — manners — is in fact hypocrisy and brings about distance between the host and the guest. Therefore, if you are at home with your ~~guest~~ host, you cannot show a bigger honour to him: act in your guest's home as you would in your own home.